- What are some ways “data” shows up in your life?
The Sharing of information from one system to another.

It is what connects us to the larger System.

What we see

The Conversations we have

Our information
1. Everyone will have a small piece of paper
2. 10 second to write one word.
3. Swap papers with someone (do this repeatedly).
   - 10 more seconds to write a new word
4. The last person will have 1 minute to write a sentence using the words written on the front.
5. We will read them out loud.
In what ways do you think that exercise mimics how we share and receive data?

- What does it say about how our data is received and shared back?

- The end results of the data we share depends on where it ends up.
Intentionally VS Unintentionally Intentionally

- Social Media
- Job Applications
- Phone Calls
- Resumes
- Google Searches

Unintentional

- Locations from Apps
- Credit Reports
- GPS Location
- Credit Cards

Think About It.
UNINTENTIONAL
I need a couple of volunteers to come up and jot down one of the following:
- A favorite place in Charlotte
- The place you like going the least
- Someplace you visit often
- Your community
- Somewhere you went yesterday
- Somewhere you have to go today.

I also need a couple of volunteers to write down the last 2 things you googled.
If someone pulled up your GPS map, what could they say about you?
How does all of this relate to job searching and finding employment?

How can we use what we learned to help or inform our communities.

How will you use this in your everyday lives?
